"HAL" CHASE MUST TELL WHY HE JUMPED CONTRACT

While the much talked of case of Hal Chase, the champion long distance contract jumped of the American League, was virtually settled at the in organized baseball. Chase applied a few days. to the commission for reinstatement by telegraph. He was notified that he must apply in the formal way over his own signature. Chase hastened to comply with the commission's order, and his application was received by President Garry Herrman a few days

The document was a model of terseness and accuracy, but was not explicit enough for the Supreme Court of baseball. Chase merely asked to be reinstated, but failed to give any reason why he should be, and also failed to give his reasons for jumping the Highlanders last fall. Therefore the petition was sent back to Harold with the request that he give some reasons explaining his course.

> London, Jan. 14.-Sam Langford, the hard hitting negro scrapper from Boston and Jack Johnson, the black champion, will meet for twenty rounds at the National Sporting Club on May 24. Langford has been after Johnson and the ease with which the Bostonian has knocked out his opponents has gained him much favor. The men will battle for a purse of $25,000. This offer was cabled to Langford who is now on the Pacific coast and the club officials are sure that he will accept. There is no fear that Johnson will not take up the offer for the negro champion promised before he went to Australia that he would return to London and meet any man the National Sporting Club desired. The color line is not drawn in England and this will insure a record breaking attendance. Already the management is being besieged for choice seats and it is expected that the battle will be witnessed by many of the

At present Middletown and New Britain are tied for first place each team having wone two games and lost one. The New Britain team trimmed the Middletown Association in Middletown, but the Middletown team turned the tables on New Britain when they journeyed to New Britain. In the last game played by Middletown they trimmed the Meriden Association in a fast snappy game. The local First Team have been on the jump during the past week and will put up a good stiff argument in the line of basket ball when they line up against Middletown on Friday night. The main game will commence promptly at 8:15 o'clock as the Middletown team will have to leave early in order to make connections for Middletown.

Happy Either Way. The old Duke of Norfolk, who was a very shabby dresser, met a privileged friend in Bond street, London. Said the privileged friend, a military man of the premier duke's own age: "Why, duke, what's come to your clothes? You look as if you had raked over your rag bag to find them!" The duke replied, with a shrug: "What does it matter what I wear here? No one knows me!" A few months later the same friend, himself always a well dressed man, met the duke again, pottering about in the neighborhood of Arundel, the delightful Sussex village under a hill crowned by the castle from whose name the eldest son of a Duke of Norfolk always takes his "courtesy" title-Earl of Arundel. "Why, duke," said his friend again, "what's the matter with your clothes?" The duke shrugged his shoulders again. "What does it matter what I wear here? Every one knows me!"

German Lotteries.

In an article on the lotteries the Berliner Tageblatt says there are three ways by which wealth is acquired-by work, which is long and tedious; by dishonesty, which is a precarious proceeding, and by gambling. The number of persons who prefer the last named method, says the writer, is large in the German realm, for there the great lotteries thrive best. There are seven of these under the management of the government, and they distribute $160.000,000 in prizes. The anxiety to secure a part of this amount has destroyed the happiness of thousands of households and has diverted thousands of good men from honest industry and thrift to idleness and are about 22,000 winners a year, but of these only about 650 receive prizes of more than 1,000 marks each.

One of the marine curiosities fished from the bottom of the Indian ocean by a dredging vessel chartered by the Calcutta Society of Natural History was a mammoth sea crab, which continually emitted a bright white light. similar to that seen in the spasmodic flashes of phosphorescent luminosity kindled by the common fireflies. The oddity was captured in daytime and placed in a large tank, nothing peculiar except its immense size being noticeable in the broad glare of the tropical sun. At night, however, when all was in pitchy darkness, the crab surprised the naturalists by lighting up the tank so that all the other sea creatures, great and small, occupying the same tank could be plainly seen. When the luminous crustacean was prodded with a pole he emitted flashes of light, which enabled the experimenters to read small print, even though otherwise they were in total darkness.-London Chronicle.

He Was Guilty.

The great Irish agitator, Daniel O'Connell, was at one time defending a man accused of murder at Clonmel. The circumstantial evidence was so strong against the prisoner that the jury had already determined upon their verdict of guilty, when the man supposed to have been murdered was brought into court, alive and unhurt. The jury were desired to return their verdict at once, and they did so, but it was one of guilty.
